House makes drastic cuts to rural development funds

By Erik Johnston

ASSOCIATE LEGISLATIVE DIRECTOR

The House has approved a significantly scaled-back FY12 agriculture spending bill with discretionary funding levels pegged at 13 percent ($17.25 billion) below the FY11 level of $19.92 billion. The bill provides $2.1 billion for rural development led priority projects of rural programs, a 14 percent decrease regions. of $338 million from last year's level. This level of funding is $876 million or 30 percent less than the NACo-supported FY10 level of $2.96 billion.

The Queen of Hearts turned out to be a lucky card for the Snohomish County, Wash. Sheriff's Office when it recently led to an arrest in a 1979 homicide case. Someone recognized a picture of Susan Schwarz, the victim, on a "cold case" playing card — decks of which are distributed to jails and prisons in the state — and tipped off police to a suspect.

But rather than thanking luck, Det. Joe Scharf is expressing gratitude to the people who twice — purchased 5,000 decks of the cards for his office: The Stillaguamish Tribe of Indians. Unable to afford the $6,850 cards, the Sheriff's Office asked the Stillaguamish for help four years ago, and again last year.

Senate Commerce Committee backs D-block reallocation

Public safety communications networks got a boost in the Senate recently when, by a bipartisan vote of 21–4, the U.S. Senate Commerce. It would reallocate the spectrum for public safety and interoperable, wireless broadband create a mechanism for funding a nationwide interoperable public safety broadband network. However, two amendments that surprisingly passed in the committee did not survive the full House vote. Both had been offered by Rep. Jeff Flake (R-Ariz.). One amendment would have banned payment of crop subsidies to anyone making more than $250,000 per year.

Another Flake amendment that was ruled out of order before the full vote would have shifted more than $140 million in cotton subsidies from U.S. farmers to pay for a World Trade Organization dispute with Brazil.

The focus now shifts to the Senate, where grassroots action is needed to remind senators about the importance of rural development programs.

Council

On June 9, the White House announced the establishment of the first White House Rural Council. The council will coordinate programs across government agencies to encourage publicprivate partnerships that promote economic prosperity and quality of life in rural communities.

Chaired by Secretary of Agriculture Tom Vilsack, the council will provide recommendations for investment in rural areas and will coordinate federal engagement with a variety of rural stakeholders, including agricultural organizations, small businesses, and state, local and tribal governments.

Vilsack has promised to seek input from rural counties as the administration moves forward with the council, which will include regional roundtables.

Again, no details on how this proposal would be financed.

In recent weeks, NACo has been active on several issues. NACo rallied support for a "Dear Colleague" letter supporting the off-system bridge program authored by Reps. Sam Graves (R-Mo.) and Tim Holden (D-Pa.) that garnered 18 signatures in the House. NACo also wrote a letter, which was signed by the National League of Cities, National Association of Regional Councils and the National Association of Development Organizations sent to the leadership and members of the House and Senate transportation committees, opposing any efforts to eliminate MPOs (metropolitan planning organizations) in regions of between 50,000–200,000, something that is rumored to be under consideration.

committees with major jurisdiction over this legislation have indicated that legislative proposals will be forthcoming very soon. However, even if these drafts are produced in the near future, many expect them to have details about program structure.

But they may not include funding distribution formulas for the highway and transit programs, and will likely not include specific details about how the programs will be financed, an issue the House and Senate tax-writing committees will decide. For many members of Congress, program structure means little and formulas they look at along with proposals to raise revenue.

The aviation bill has made more progress, and both the House and Senate have passed bills (note: they both passed bills in the last Congress as well with no compromise reached). However, progress is a relative term since the program is on its 19th extension since the program expired on Sept. 30, 2007, this time through June 30.

While the congressional committees with jurisdiction over the aviation legislation have been trying to resolve differences between the two bills, major differences remain, including several provisions that could be very difficult to resolve. The Senate bill is for two years, the House bill is for four. The House bill cuts funding for Essential Air Service and eliminates the program in FY14, while the Senate bill continues EAS but eliminates a number of airports with low enplanements and some that are within 90 miles of a larger commercial airport. Incentive program helps create jobs for small businesses

By Christopher Johnson

EDITORIAL ASSISTANT

In this tough economic climate, counties are looking for ways to help jumpstart job creation with little cost.

Hillsborough County, Fla. began its small business reimbursement the small business sector." incentive program in March. The program promotes job creation by offering a wage reimbursement to small business owners. The county of 1.2 million is part of the Tampa metropolitan area.

The program reimburses small businesses up to 50 percent of three months' total salary of new jobs created, capped at $3,900 per new employee. County officials estimate that the program will encourage the creation of approximately 200 jobs annually, offering a total of $500,000 to local small business owners.

"Hillsborough County needs improve the opportunities for businesses and entrepreneurs within the region," said Commissioner Sandra L. Murman. "This initiative will have a real impact on the opportunities for local growth in Economic development officials estimate that 70 percent of the Hillsborough County work force is employed in small business. Murman did some brainstorming with those officials and crafted something that is deliberately simple but also limited in nature.

They identified $500,000 that had been set aside in a pool for industry promotion that would fund the program. To qualify, small business owners would have to attend a minimum of four hours of business workshops or counseling sessions and meet specific requirements such as having 10 or fewer employees; to grow its economic base and new jobs must be full-time and continue the required three-month employment period; new employees must be residents of Hillsborough County and businesses must be located in Hillsborough County; and capping reimbursements at three created jobs.

> As of June 16, the incentive program has received applications for 63 new employees from 37 businesses.

> "That's the equivalent of a major corporation coming to town," added Murman. "It's a win-win for the county and small businesses."

Now that the county has a successful small business program, the city of Tampa is reaching out for help to create a similar program.

this if we couldn't have gotten funding from an outside source."

Shawn Yanity, chairman of the Stillaguamish Tribal Council, said, "What we see there as a value is bringing closure to somebody's life. And as a government, helping out another government make a difference, solve one of these cases."

After hundreds of years on the receiving end of government help, some Native American tribes across the country are flexing their economic muscles as donors of government largesse, not recipients.

Joseph Kalt co-directs the Harvard Project on American Indian Economic Development. He said many tribes that are flourishing economically can credit gaming revenues from casinos, and most are located near major metropolitan areas - Seattle, Phoenix, Albuquerque, Los Angeles, San Diego and Minneapolis, among others.

And he thinks their philanthropic motives are pure.

"It's not a cynical thing on the part of the tribe of 'let's just get some good public relations out of this;' rather, I think tribes are quite sincere in wanting to be good neighbors," he said.

Some tribes prosper as others remain mired in poverty

Arlington is about an hour north of Seattle.

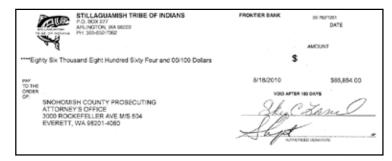

"That's what we promised to do almost 10 years ago when we started to grow economically, and that's what we're going to continue to do," Yanity said.

Not all tribes have been so fortunate. On the whole, Native Americans remain the poorest minority group in the nation. The poverty rate among Indian people is 25.9 percent, compared to the national rate of 11.3 percent, according to Tribal Philanthropy in Arizona, a 2010 report.

For those whose economies are strong, Kalt said tribes' helping state and local governments is "a very common process," which occurs formally and informally in three primary ways.

First, the federal Indian Gaming Regulatory Act (IGRA) governs the type of gaming tribes can enter into, and the relationship between gaming tribes and their states, he said. Under IGRA, gaming tribes are required to enter into compacts that determine what payments the tribe will make to the state in lieu of taxes. Often, the tribes negotiate with their states, but payments go to towns, cities and counties.

Secondly, smaller tribes may also pickup for the county.

benefit neighboring local governments through direct payments for services such as "rent a sheriff," Kalt said. A tribe with a small police department might enter into a service agreement for the county to provide law enforcement to the tribe. The same is true of other municipal services a tribe might require, such as fire protection, road maintenance and waste disposal.

On the other hand, sometimes these arrangements run in the other direction, he added, and the tribe is the one with the solid waste disposal facility, selling services back to a county or city. Such is the case in Menominee County, Wis., whose boundaries are the same as the Menominee Nation's, and the county's 2010 population was 87.5 percent Native American. The tribe handles solid waste and recycling

Kalt said the Stillaguamishes' charity falls into a third category: "voluntary contributions." "It's very common now for tribes to be making contributions to the United Way, to other local charitable organizations, and so forth," he said.

In Washington state, tribes like the Stillaguamish have focused much of their giving on police and public safety agencies, according to Yanity. He said his tribe has purchased thermalimaging cameras, a hovercraft, a rescue boat and a new Jaws of Life for police or fire departments.

For the Stillaguamish, Yanity said their desire to help begs the ongoing question: "How do we help out; how do we become a part of the solution instead of part of the problem? In some people's eyes, unfortunately, that's the way they see it: Tribe builds a casino, we're building a problem," he said.

Kalt sees a poignant irony in this reversal of roles. "It's a pride of saying, 'We're still here,' and in fact in this period in which tribes have been growing economically — not just

Tribes bolster economies of Wisconsin counties

In Wisconsin, the positive effects from Indian gaming "extend far beyond reservation or trust land borders," according to the February 2011 report, Tribes of Wisconsin, by the Wisconsin Department of Administration, Division of Intergovernmental Affairs.

There are 11 federally recognized tribes in the state, all of which have entered into compacts with the state to operate 23 casinos among them.

Nine tribes were the largest employers in 10 counties in the first quarter of 2010. According to the report, they are:

- Bad River Band of Lake Superior Chippewa Indians, Ashland
- Forest County Potawatomi Community, Forest County
- Ho-Chunk Nation, Sauk and Jackson counties
- Lac Courte Oreilles Band of Lake Superior Chippewa, Sawyer
 - Lac du Flambeau Band of Lake Superior Chippewa, Vilas County
 - Menominee Nation, Menominee County
 - Mohican Nation, Stockbridge-Munsee Band, Shawano County
 - Red Cliff Band of Lake Superior Chippewa, Bayfield County
 - St. Croix Band of Chippewa Indians, Burnett County

Tribes are also significant employers in Brown and Barron counties.

The counties' non-Native American populations have also benefited from jobs in the gaming industry, often in rural and economically depressed areas. "Outside contracts generated from the gaming industry further fuel a positive economy. The tourism industry has also benefited substantially," the report stated.

the gaming tribes but non-gaming Indian nations to reach their full tribes as well — they finally have the resources that allow them to step out in the role as second-class citizen, which has been forced on tribes for so long in prior history."

Yet even with the relative prosperity of some tribes, Yanity said much

"We're still not up to par; we're into the community in a way that isn't still not up to where we should be as nations that ceded ... land for certain promises," he said. "But we're doing the best we can, and we still know part of that is getting along with our local communities... It's better to work remains to be done before get along than it is to build fences."

Fresno County was formed in 1856 from parts of Mariposa, Merced and Tulare counties. The county is named after Fresno Creek. Fresno in Spanish signifies "ash tree," the creek's name, due to the abundance of mountain ash or ash trees in the county.

Residents brought irrigation, electricity and extensive agriculture to the area. Moses Church developed the first canals, called "Church Ditches," for irrigation. These canals transformed the barren desert of Fresno County into rich soil, thus enabling extensive wheat farming. Frances Eisen, leader of the wine industry in the county, also began the raisin industry in 1875, when he accidentally let some of his grapes dry on the vine. A.Y. Easterby and Clovis Cole (aka the "Wheat King of the Nation") developed extensive grain and cattle

News From the Nation's Counties

►ALABAMA

JEFFERSON COUNTY commissioners announced plans to lav off as many as 964 employees — a third of the workforce — until the fiscal year ends Sept. 30, the Birmingham News reported.

Some of the workers are likely to lose their jobs permanently, even if the financially strapped county finds enough revenue to replace the loss of its occupational tax, county leaders said.

approximately $16 million per month to operate at its current size, while only $7 million per month of revenue is being generated.

in March threw out the county's occupational tax, which generated $66 million in revenue last year. Losing the tax led the commission to cut more than $30 million in spending and close the county's satellite courthouses.

►CALIFORNIA

Nobody confuses jail time with a trip to Disneyland, but a proposal in RIVERSIDE COUNTY could change that, at least as far as entrance fees are concerned.

Following the U.S. Supreme Court case Brown v. Plata that could send tens of thousands of state inmates back to county jails, Supervisor Jeff Stone is suggesting charging inmates for the cost of incarceration. His plan could also charge admission fees for people who visit inmates.

it costs the taxpayers to house our convicts in our jails which amounts to $51,830 a year," he told KPCC-FM. "White collar crimes, people that get put in jail after repetitive DUIs — they can in fact reimburse this county either through liens on their property or judgments that can be applied."

Stone admits it could be a longshot, but Indiana's Porter County started billing prisoners more than 10 years ago.

Riverside County attorneys will review its inmate reimbursement proposal and report back to the Board of Supervisors later this year.

▶FLORIDA

The war on bugs in HERNAN-DO COUNTY may soon have a new funding source.

The County Commission hopes reported. to swap the revenue from a tax levy used now to buy and maintain sensitive land, for mosquito control the county has acquired is swampy and contributes to the breeding of mosquitoes. County staff suggested creating a new taxing unit redirecting money from the sensitive lands fund, to mosquito control. The change would have no effect on the bottom line of property owners' tax bills, the St. Petersburg Times reported.

▶GEORGIA

AFULTONCOUNTY woman's Officials said the county needs visual aid helped convince commissioners to ban elephant bullhooks commonly used in circuses.

Resident Anna Ware tried to bring one into a commission meet-The Alabama Supreme Court ing, but security guards seized it as a weapon. A police detective had to carry it into chambers so she could show what one looks like - an instrument shaped like a fire poker, topped with a steel claw with two sharpened tips.

> Fulton became the first Georgia jurisdiction to approve such a measure, following cities and counties in Florida, South Carolina, New York, Kentucky and Indiana, the Atlanta Journal-Constitution reported. The ban does not include Atlanta.

ILLINOIS

They may call it the "cooler," yet it was heard to be anything but in WABASH COUNTY. Just in time for the height of summer, the Board of Commissioners approved money to replace the county jail's HVAC system.

The Daily Republican Register "It's $142 a day per inmate that reported that if a grant from the Greater Wabash Regional Planning Commission is approved, the county will need to pay only 25 percent of the total project cost.

> "It's getting way too hot in there," Wabash County Sheriff Joe Keeling said of conditions at the jail.

►INDIANA

Beginning July 1, county health departments will not be allowed to provide low-cost immunizations to children whose families have health insurance.

In a May 18 letter issued to Indiana health care providers, State Health Commissioner Gregory Larkin asked physicians not to refer patients to county health clinics for immunizations — making more vaccines available to families with the most need, the Journal Gazette

Those with insurance will be referred to their family doctors. If their physicians don't carry the vaccines, families will be able to Commissioner Dave Russell obtain the immunizations from reasoned that much of the land the health department at cost, ac-

Tracy Colavito (r), WESTCHESTER COUNTY clerk's Passports and Licensing Division, assists a passport applicant in the clerk's mobile office June 10. Since April, County Clerk Timothy C. Idoni's community outreach staff has accepted over 300 passport applications in more than 15 locations throughout the county. To accommodate more applicants, the mobile office makes late afternoon and evening appearances in some locations.

for the ALLEN COUNTY Health Department.

►KANSAS

• Landfills in CHEROKEE and CRAWFORD counties will receive nearly 3 million cubic vards of debris from tornado-ravaged Joplin, Mo., state officials announced.

The southeastern Kansas landfills will take the debris thanks to their proximity to Joplin.

A screening process will be used to ensure that unauthorized waste is not disposed at the Kansas sites, Kansas Department of Health and Environment representatives told the Wichita Eagle.

• MARION COUNTY is doubling recycling pickup and consolidating drop-offs.

The commission voted to end the county's monthly recycling trailer route and to replace it by putting a large recycling bin in each community on the route.

The county will pay to have one bin in most incorporated cities in the county. The local sites will be more available than the once-a-month recycling trailer which traveled to each community. The new program was approved as a six-month trial, the Peabody Gazette-Bulletin reported.

►NEVADA

A state Supreme Court ruling in CLARK COUNTY's favor means cording to John Silcox, spokesman money from the county this year.

The high court ruled against from the Clean Water Coalition -— saying it was unconstitutional for the state to single out local entities for a money grab.

"It certainly will provide some relief to the cuts in expenditures we have to make going into the next year," County Manager Don Burnette told the Las Vegas Review-Journal. "It allows us to push back access. It has since been repealed, the prospect of layoffs."

▶NEW YORK

• No more not-so-free rides for six more BROOME COUNTY officials. To cut costs without raising taxes, County Executive Patrick J. Brennan has revoked the take-home county car privileges for several department heads or deputies.

Since taking office April 21, Brennan has grounded nine vehicles, including his and those of two of his deputies, the Press & Sun-Bulletin reported.

• CHAUTAUQUA COUN-TY's Health Department and Veteran's Services Agency will collaborate to help provide cancer services to veterans. The move is expected to save the county $20,000.

The health department's Cancer Services Program receives funding via the New York State Department of Health. The new "hands off" for a state plan to take partnership will provide veterans about $35 million in property tax service coordinators, who interact with veterans and their families, with important information about cancer services available to veterans and their spouses who may not be covered through VA benefits or other health insurance programs.

"All of my department heads are being encouraged as they have in the past to find these opportunities," County Executive Greg Edwards told the Observer. "They will find more...."

HENDERSON COUNTY has hired its first agri-business executive director to head the county's agricultural economic development efforts. He's Mark Williams, CFO and food safety coordinator for a company that grows and packs produce for retail sale, and a former county commissioner.

Agriculture accounts for 17 percent of the equivalent of the county's gross domestic product.

"We're going to keep people on the farms, and make farms profitable," he told the Times-News.

"Erring on the side of transparthe Legislature's taking $62 million ency" is the goal of an ordinance the SALTLAKE COUNTY Council is of which Clark County is a member considering, according to Councilman Arlyn Bradshaw.

> He proposed a measure that would make it easier for the public to obtain electronic communications, such as text messages, from government officials. It runs counter to legislation passed by the Utah Legislature this year to restrict such according to The Salt Lake Tribune.

> "To the extent that new technologies are being used to develop public policy, I believe we need to be transparent in making that available to public view," Bradshaw said. His ordinance calls on county employees to favor "openness and transparency" when reviewing requests for all forms of electronic and social media communications.

The H.R. Doctor Is In

without hearing news stories about the latest unrest in places not on most Americans' tourism bucket if Congress were to leave everything lists, such as Bahrain, Sudan or Somalia.

Likewise, it is hard to avoid hearing about some of the adult behaviors demonstrated by some of our Hollywood stars such as Charlie Sheen. Of course, there is the constant harping about one of the most critical issues of our ties which combine skills in math, time: Who will be anointed the next "American Idol," or thrown off "Dancing with the Stars?"

Amidst all of this, there is one story which is critically important to the future of each of us, our communities and our country. What will we do about the nation's enormous deficit and seriously unbalanced budget?

For people who have spent a career in local government, balancing the budget requires a relatively simple solution. We must cut expenses, raise revenues or do a combination of both. No matter what end of the political teeter-totter you sit on, this necessity is a commonly understood fact of life. Local governments don't print money. No Multnomah County Eco-Dollars, Iowa County Corn-Fed Beef Bills or Napa Valley Grape Certificates are available to bail us out.

At the federal level, the budget is simply beyond our ability to pay. The result of allowing the deficit to go unchecked is the equivalent powerful interest groups and lobbyof losing our national home to foreclosure and having our national four-wheel-drive truck repossessed. There is however, one thoughtmight just appeal to persons of all tration might actually be the best

It is impossible to go for a day political persuasions mentioned by Slate writer Annie Lowery.

> If Congress were to do nothing... just as it is, pass no new laws and simply step aside and take a longterm vacation (while being paid and keeping their health insurance, of course), the budget would be balanced in 8-10 years.

The basis of this outstanding suggestion rests with several realieconomics, art and science fiction. The Bush era tax cuts for wealthier Americans would be allowed to expire. Alternative minimum tax effects on about 20 million families would end. Health care costs would reduce or increases be stemmed because no repeal or defunding of national health care initiatives would take place. Medicare costs during this period would be much more controlled, unfortunately, by not increasing payments to beleaguered family practice physicians.

A lot of these proposals would hurt many people, not the least of whom would be the highly dedicated and caring physician HR Doctor daughter Rachel. However, no balancing of the federal budget will be successful without program cuts, revenue increases and long-term bipartisan thinking. No solutions are out there which don't hurt groups of people or individuals. These "hurts" are made worse living in a world of political pork, deal making between ists, and Congress unable to keep its corporate mouth shut.

Bringing back the concept of the "Do Nothing" Congress borrowed provoking solution out there which from the Harry Truman adminis-

There is likely also prolonged snoring.

> These are the same characteristics, perhaps without the snoring, which our country needs to weather the difficult economics of high-deficit and unbalanced budgets. Shouldn't Congress act in the national interest, and be quiet and go away so the problem can be sorted out?

County Gives Seniors Informative Birthday Present

STAFF WRITER

"Sweet 65" parties don't have the same panache as the birthday 49 vears earlier, but that doesn't bother Macomb County, Mich.

In contrast to many of their teenage counterparts about to celebrate a milestone birthday, 64-year-olds don't think they know everything. That awareness and clear need has led the county's senior citizens services department to organize an information session for residents about to cross the threshold into what benefits specialists call the a bit of flair. Organizers dressed a senior years.

Just as learners' permits don't switch on like a light on their 65th birthdays. From Social Security that is not entirely intuitive.

"We'd get calls from people who are totally overwhelmed," said Sue Meyers, a county resource advocate for senior citizens. "We didn't have the staffing to answer all the calls."

In the meantime, seniors' ignorance was hurting them. Some programs, like Medicare Part B, include a penalty for late enrollment.

To disseminate information effectively, Meyers organized an evening group information session in 2009 to cover the major issues inherent to turning 65, and added county auditorium like a birthday party, with balloons, wrapped gifts automatically come in the mail at for each of the participants.
